LEILA TROLAND-GARDNER

WINS NEW YORK SUCCESS

Various concert and other programs received by Norwich friends are proof of the flattering recognition Mrs. Leila Troland-Gardner, a native of Norwich, is receiving in New York musical circles. Love's Vision, composed by Mrs. Leila Troland-Gardner, was chosen by Signor Fernando Carpi, Lyric tenor of the Metropolitan Opera house, as one of the group of English songs, sung by him, at his first New York song recital. Gardener, Waitz, also composed by Mrs. Gardener, was played at the Orchestra concert of the Women's Philharmonic society, given at the Hotel Majestic, March 29th. Mrs. Gardener is a member of the National Opera Club of America, as well as a member of the Women's Philharmonic society.

At a recent evening of grand opera given in the ball room of the Waldorf Astoria by the National Opera club of America, the same composer and singer was a member of the reception committee. She is the sister of Mrs. Louise M. Rogers, Room 5, Broad building, Norwich.

STONINGTON IN LIST FOR A NEW ARMORY

New state armories requiring appropriations to the amount of $300,000, to be situated in six localities in Connecticut, are recommended in as many bills prepared by the committee on military affairs for presentation to the legislature. They will be further referred to the committee on appropriations.

The places selected for the armories, together with the appropriations provided in the respective bills, are: Waterbury, $300,000; Saybrook, $50,000; Wallingford, $100,000; Middletown, $150,000; Stonington, $50,000; Ansonia, $150,000.

In each case, the municipalities mentioned will be required to furnish the site for the armory and construction will not be started until the state has accepted and approved the site. The Waterbury bill permits the use of proceeds from an old armory in that city in connection with the appropriation for the new building. The old building and site are valued at about $50,000.

Many of the armories were requested in bills presented to the legislature in 1917, but the uncertain status of the state's military branch at that time made it inadvisable to take any action on them then. The purpose of the committee on military affairs is to make the state military service as attractive as possible and maintain an effective force to cope with any emergency growing out of industrial unrest or other causes.

COUNT YTAG WILL BE ONE MILL FOR TWO YEARS

The senators and representatives of New London county in the legislature held a meeting Friday afternoon at Hartford for adjournment of the general assembly at which Representative James Graham of Lisbon presided and Representative William A. Holt of New London acted as clerk. It was voted that a county tax of one mill be levied, one half to be paid July 1, 1919 and the other half, July 1, 1920. The proposition to provide for a county sealer of weights and measures met with very little favor. Under the law the county commissioners appoint the sealer and the legislative members fix the compensation. The matter was discussed freely, and during the discussion it was set forth that there was no county sealer during the past two years and that there was no need for such an official, as under the law the cities and towns can have sealers without the aid of one representing the county. The discussion was brought to a close when a motion presented by Representative John C. Geary of Waterford, prevailed that the compensation be fixed at $250 a year or $5 for the next two fiscal years. The county commissioners will have difficulty to find a man in the county to accept the office at the unattractive salary.

There will be another county meeting next Tuesday when consideration will be given the proposition to increase the salaries of the commissioners from $1,000 to $1,500 each.

NEW FISH LAW WOULD REPLACE MANY OTHERS

The fish and game committee gave hearing Wednesday afternoon at the capitol at Hartford on an act licensing non-resident fishermen, which would require non-residents who fish in the waters of this state, and who come from states where anglers are licensed, to take out licenses to fish in Connecticut. The bill was favored by nineteen members of the general assembly and there was no opposition.

Hearing was also given on a uniform fishing bill, which makes open season in all lakes and ponds the same from May 1 to January 25 and repealing Sections 3211, 3213, 3215, 3217, 3219, 3220, 3221, 3222, 3223, 3224, 3225, 3226, 3227, 3228, 3229, 3230, 3231, 3232, 3233, 3234, 3235, 3236, 3237, 3238, 3239, 3240, 3241, 3242, 3243 and 3248. Some of these sections would open for fishing bodies of water where fishing is absolutely prohibited, notably Lake Konomoc which is the source of water supply for the city of New London.

Mr. John T. Black, superintendent of health explained these conditions and offered an amendment which provides that no person be permitted to fish in ponds, lake or reservoirs, which are the source of water supply for domestic purposes.

who has kindly consented to such arrangement. DRIVE TO INCREASE FARM BUREAU MEMBERSHIP

Every county in Connecticut will join in a drive April 7 to 12 to increase the membership of the county farm bureau. The total goal of members sought is something over sixteen thousand for the state, one fourth of which number Hartford county seeks to enroll. The farm bureaus have adopted a slogan, "Every farm family a member of the farm bureau in 1919."

The Hartford county, Connecticut, is going to be the largest organization of its kind in the United States, according to J. W. Olson of Avon, its president. Mr. Olson contends that the Hartford county farm bureau was beaten in 1915 by but one county bureau, and that in New York.

Supporting the drive for farm bureau membership are the Manufacturers Association of Connecticut, the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce, and the Connecticut Bankers Association. It is pointed out by these organizations, and by Governor Holcomb in a recent letter that the industrial interests of the state are largely bound up in the program of more food production.

Consequently, agriculture seems assured of support from industrial interests that have the money comparatively little thought before the war. With high freight rates and the west it is evident that the New England states must make more of their own food or see some of their industries move nearer the sections of food supply. The county farm bureaus are the direct agencies in each county for carrying on work in agriculture, home making, and home and girls' clubs, which the state agricultural college and United States department of agriculture are fostering.

It was the county bureau workers that put across the war program for food production and conservation. They are the working power behind every effort to make rural living more satisfying in every way. They have proved themselves not only as organizers, but as permanent, sources of the best help in all agricultural and home making problems for all peoples. Their efficiency and strength depend on the number of people who stand behind them because they are willing publicly to support their work. Every person in a county has been directly or indirectly helped by the county bureaus and the public now recognize all over the country that the county farm bureaus are a necessary permanent feature in our economic life.
